Preface

Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) 2030 is the overarching target of the United Nations (2015) overall commitment to “free humanity from poverty and hunger as a matter of urgency and live a life with dignity and esteem”. Sustained poverty eradication is also a central goal of sustainable livelihoods approaches in recognition that sustainable and fulfilling livelihoods are critical to breaking the poverty cycle. It therefore seems crucial to consider livelihoods more explicitly when presenting a set of global targets to achieve future sustainable development of society as a whole. Water, energy and food security, as well as health are key focal elements for reducing poverty by ensuring adequate resources for sustaining and improving livelihoods in equitable ways.

The organization collectively works for sustainable rural development which strengthens community at large and prospers to nation economics. SUPPORT has continuously maintained its effort in addressing the issues pertaining to holistic development. Continuing from Millennium Development Goals (MDG 2020), our current work appears to be significantly aligned with Sustainable Development Goal and ease of living through Livelihood and Life Skill Intervention. Accordingly we have modelled this year's report around select SDGs.

Agricultural development and natural resource management has been our key area of involvement through a set of projects and programs. These programs visibly create employment, restore ecological balance, improve habitats including flora and fauna and enhance livelihood. Even in the non-farm sector, several livelihood promotion activities through skill development have contributed in institutional growth. Thus they have direct and positive bearing to SDGs like End Poverty, Zero Hunger, climate change or Decent Work place.

Promotion of sanitation and hygiene has a significant role and has helped the rural area to have the basic amenities to promote clean sanitary environment and access to safe and pure drinking water. Women empowerment through promotion of organic farming and technological equipment has a crucial role in the area. Woman Self Help Groups has also come forward and is now holding the active position in their respective fields through VOs and Federations. This report captures these development through SDGs for WASH, Gender and strong institutions.

Our effort now reaches to more than one lakh thirty thousand (130000) households and around Ten thousand women (10000) Self Help groups in Nine (9) districts of Jharkhand covering 13 Sustainable Development Goals that has potential to save the world and make it a better place. In following pages we have put up an effort to capture these wonderful cases of Transforming Rural India. Help us to connect the dots leaving no one behind.

From the Secretary's Desk...

*I*t gives me immense pleasure to present Annual Report for the year 2018-19. I thank our stakeholders, team Members and program participants including grass root volunteers, farmers, women, youth, WSHGs and CRPs who have made this possible. As a result of cumulative effort and team spirit more than 90% target has been achieved. Our development processes have leveraged and translated at the grass root level through convergent action with National Flagship Program and state government departments.

This year we tried to align our interventions with Sustainable Development Goal. Our projects now cover issues related to income generation , women empowerment, Job creation, Climate Change, clean energy, water supply & sanitation . Optimum utilization of natural resources, participatory research and integration of digital facilities helped us cocreating sustainable socio economic practice model for the community we work with.

I feel proud to observe that SUPPORT is evolving as a recognized development facilitator in the region. Every year thousands of new families are joining us .On behalf of entire SUPPORT family I express gratitude to all our supporters and Resource agencies for their cooperation, support and advise in achieving the desired goal and success. We always need and appreciate our togetherness. We as development organization are meant to nurture community to the best of their potential. We embrace this wonderful idea of rural development to help the state and nation achieve new feats.
